Dear Ms. Gutierrez,

A letterhead refers to the heading at the top of a sheet of letter paper. It usually consists of a name and an address, or a logo. This often appears in letters created by companies and individuals for communicating messages, whether it's within the team, business partners, or with clients.

Letterheads are important branding tools as well, as they are sent out to a wide audience. They can set the tone for messages while showcasing your company's expertise and professionalism. This makes it important for you to create a letterhead that captures your brand's identity while presenting important details. It helps to create a template that you can use for different occasions, from inter-office memos to customer correspondences.

Dear Ms. Henderson,

A letterhead is the heading at the top of a sheet of letter paper (stationery). That heading usually consists of a name and an address, and a logo or corporate design, and sometimes a background pattern.

The term "letterhead" is often used to refer to the whole sheet imprinted with such a heading. Many companies and individuals prefer to create a letterhead template in a word processor or other software application. This generally includes the same information as pre-printed stationery but without the additional costs involved.

Letterhead can then be printed on stationery (or plain paper) as needed on a local output device or sent electronically. That heading usually consists of a name and an address, and a logo or corporate design, and sometimes a background pattern. This generally includes the same information as pre-printed stationery but without the additional costs involved.
